

Dianne Knott
Urbis

Biography

Dianne specialises in stakeholder engagement to support land use, master planning and infrastructure planning. She has close to 20 years' experience and is the former Director of Engagement and Communications, Greater Sydney Commission.

Dianne takes a collaborative, creative and evidence-based approach to engagement. She has led the design and implementation of best practice policies and implementable engagement guidelines for state and local government. She lectures in engagement for the Masters of Planning program, University of Technology Sydney.