

Keenan Jackson

ID. The Population Experts

Biography

Keenan is an economic development specialist with knowledge and expertise in city competitiveness, cluster analysis, innovation system development, and complexity economics. He is passionate about growing stronger regions and cities. In the Victorian State Government, he played a key role in developing the economic evidence and investment logic to support the Victorian Government's economic development agenda, especially in regional areas.

Since joining .id two years ago, Keenan has provided economic and population advice to local councils and industry groups across Australia. He has a Masters Degree in Urban Management and development from Erasmus University Rotterdam in Netherlands.